
Busy - not the word! 18/8/08

No blog entry in almost 8 weeks - someone shoot me! Heres what ive been up to...

We've been working hard on redeveloping this website, hopefully a new version will go live ASAP. We will be offering SEO services to clients as well as paid for Google advertising and pay per click, which in truth we have been doing quietly for some time. The difference being we will be advertising the fact and offering this as a supplemental service to go hand in hand with pay per click.

We've also been busy working on some large-ish new accounts.

On a personal note asides from running myself ragged running the business and managing pay per click and Google advertising campaigns ive been stealthily guiding my 6 a side team to the top of our football league and ive had a well earned break in Scotland.

Anywa, hope to write something of more value to you shortly!

- Andy

andymaclean@openeyemarketing.co.uk